Different Kinds of Vocabulary & Levels of Word Knowledge

Passive & Active Vocabulary:

A person's active (expressive) vocabulary is a smaller subset of her passive (receptive) vocabulary; in other words, she knows far more words than she uses.

Of the approximately half a million words in current use—750,000 if you take into account polysemy (multiple meanings)—a typical college-educated adult has a vocabulary of about 40,000 words, uses about 20,000 when she writes, and uses only about 10,000 of that 20,000 when she speaks.

Instructors should choose vocabulary words carefully. Also, if a student needs only to recognize a word in text, instruction can be less intense. If a student needs to be able to use the word, instruction will need to include a deeper understanding and application practice.

Word Knowledge:

Before teaching a word to students, show them the word and ask them to rank it on a scale of 1 to 5 by how well they know it. This activates any prior knowledge of the word.

Vocabulary Categories:

Reading vocabulary:

words you recognize when you read (typically the largest vocabulary)

Listening vocabulary:

words you recognize when listening to speech (increased by context and tone of voice)

Writing vocabulary:

words you use when you write (many written words do not usually occur in speech)

Speaking vocabulary:

words you use in speech (typically a subset of listening vocabulary)

Notes:

Terminology for Morphology Study

affix	prefix or suffix that can be attached to the base
base	morpheme that holds the core meaning of a word; every word has one stands alone; often called base word (e.g., port , kind )
free base	only appears as part of a larger word (e.g., struct , mit )
bound base
base word	free base; word even when no affixes are added (e.g., kind )
final stable syllable	cluster of letters at the end of a word whose pronunciation remains consistent regardless of the word in which it appears (e.g., -tion , -ble , -ture ); not synonymous with the term suffix
morpheme	smallest component of a word that has meaning
phoneme	smallest unit of speech sound (e.g., /b/, /ch/)
prefix	affix placed before the base of a word (e.g., pre- , ab- )
root	word in an origin language from which English bases are derived; (sometimes, the term is used to identify bases)
suffix	affix placed after the base of a word
derivational (lexical): (shifts part of speech)	vowel: -able, -ance, -ate, -er (noun), -ish, -ive, -ize, -ous, -us consonant: -ly, -like, -ment, -ful, -tude, -less
inflectional (grammatical): (does not shift part of speech)	vowel: -ed, -er (comparative), -es, -est, -ing consonant: -ly, -'s, -s
assimilated prefix	prefix (often nicknamed chameleon) where, for ease of pronunciation, the final letter changes according to the initial letter of the base to which it is attached (e.g., ad- changes to ar- before range to make arrange ; in- changes to im- before pact to make impact )
element	(sometimes called combining form) often used to describe Greek-based bases and affixes (e.g., phone , crat , phys , epi- , a- )
connective	letter(s) in English words used to combine two morphemes; connectives function as glue and have no meaning (not morphemes)
Latin-based	connect a base to a suffix or two suffixes to each other (e.g., palim ony, grad ient, monu ment). -i- and -u- are connectives; while -ul- is sometimes identified as a connective, it is actually suffix -ule , where the e has dropped before a vowel suffix
Greek-based	connective -o- often joins two elements (e.g., photo graph, demo cracy)

note: Because in linguistics the term "root" refers to the word (in another language) from which our current stem or base is derived, base is a more clear term to describe the core meaning in an English word. Often, however, in word study with students, the term "root" is used interchangeably with "stem" and "base."

Morpheme Instruction at the Middle & High School Level: A Week's Lesson in E.L.A.

1. Introduce.
  - a. Write the morpheme for students to see. Include appropriate dashes for affixes. (e.g., pre-, contra-, -ment, -age but port-, struct)
  - b. Have students trace and write the morpheme, naming its letters as they write.
  - c. Write the morpheme in a keyword to show how it is used.
  - d. Have students pronounce, trace, and write the keyword, naming its letters as they write.
  - e. Explain and write the meaning of the morpheme. (Either use direct instruction or, wherever possible, help students use discovery learning to uncover its meaning.)
  - f. Provide or ask students to create a personal card with the morpheme on the front and its keyword and meaning on the back.
  - g. Using a Post-it, add the morpheme to the morpheme wall or chart.
2. Generate with the students a list of words that contain the new morpheme.
3. Provide definitions, and have students retrieve from memory other, recognizable but less familiar, words that contain the studied morpheme.
4. Have students build a matrix for the morpheme or build word sums from an existing matrix.
5. Have students locate and underline the morpheme in words containing it. Alternatively, have the students complete word sorts.
6. Have students participate in morphemic awareness activities (oral manipulation of morphemes in words). Use felts or chips to represent the morphemes you move just as you would for phonemic awareness activities. (See Donah's texts for scripted activities.)

Instructor: Say constructed.

Student: constructed

Instructor: Change the /ed/ in constructed to /ing/.

Student: constructing

Instructor: Add re to the beginning of constructing.

Student: reconstructing

Instructor: Drop the first prefix and the /ing/ in reconstructing.

Student: construct

Instructor: Add /iv/ to the end of construct.

Student: constructive.

7. Have students read phrases/sentences that include examples of words containing morpheme.
8. Provide word, phrase, and sentence dictation that includes examples of words containing morpheme.
9. Have students write sentences with words containing morpheme.
10. Have students locate words that contain familiar prefixes and bases in paragraphs or longer pieces.

* Games and other activities can be added or even used instead of some of the activities above. See separate page of supplemental activities.

Morpheme Instruction for Middle/High School Students In the Content Areas

1. Introduce.
  - a. Write the morpheme for students to see. Include appropriate dashes for affixes. (e.g., pre-, contra-, -ment, -age but port, struct)
  - b. Have students write the morpheme, naming its letters as they write.
  - c. Write the morpheme in a keyword to show how it is used. (You choose the keyword.)
  - d. Have students pronounce and write the keyword, naming its letters as they write.
  - e. Explain and write the meaning of the morpheme. (Either use direct instruction or, wherever possible, help students use discovery learning to uncover its meaning.)
  - f. Ask students to make a morpheme card for the term or, alternatively, to add it to the vocabulary section of their notebooks.
  - g. Using a Post-it, add the morpheme to the morpheme wall.
2. Generate with the students a list of words that contain the new morpheme.
3. Provide definitions, and have students retrieve from memory other, recognizable but less familiar, words that contain the studied element.
4. Have students build a matrix for the morpheme.
5. Have students locate and underline the morpheme in words containing it. Alternatively, have the students complete word sorts.
6. Have students read sentences/paragraphs that include examples of words containing element. (This could involve reading the textbook or an article or essay that uses this morpheme.)
7. If you want the term in their active vocabulary, ask students to write sentences with words containing element. A sentence frame may help with this activity.

Bonus Activities:

- A. Have students write a prefix or base in the center, and map or web words that come from that word part. More advanced students can even link those webbed words to other prefixes and base. An example of a simple word web for the Greek element tele is at right.
- B. #6 can be done as a cumulative activity, where students identify words that include any studied element from the year. This practice teaches students to recognize learned word parts and proves their frequency and therefore the usefulness of studying them.

A Note on Procedure for Word Origins

A significant conceptual difference exists between basic phonological decoding (division by sound) and morphological work (division by meaning). With morphology we no longer examine words based on syllabication; rather, we examine them based on parts for meaning. Examples are above at right. Morphological study leads to an understanding of more challenging spellings and an enhanced vocabulary.

phonological division	morphological division
e la tion	e lat ion
in som ni a	in somn i a con tra dic tion	contra dict ion

Supplemental Activities

1. Have students write a prefix or base in the center, and map or web words that come from that morpheme. More advanced students can even link those webbed words to other prefixes and bases. An example of a simple word web for the Greek element -tele- is at right.

2. Have students locate words that contain familiar prefixes and bases in magazine or newspaper articles. This practice teaches students to recognize learned morphemes and proves their frequency and therefore the usefulness of studying them.

3. Provide students with a “word of the day,” which they must analyze at the phonological (phonemes, syllables, blends/digraphs, etc.) and morphological (language of origin, prefix/base/suffix, advanced structures, meaning if possible) levels. This provides both review and a fascinating study!

4. Suffixes often determine part of speech. Examine these words to see how their parts of speech change as different suffixes are added:

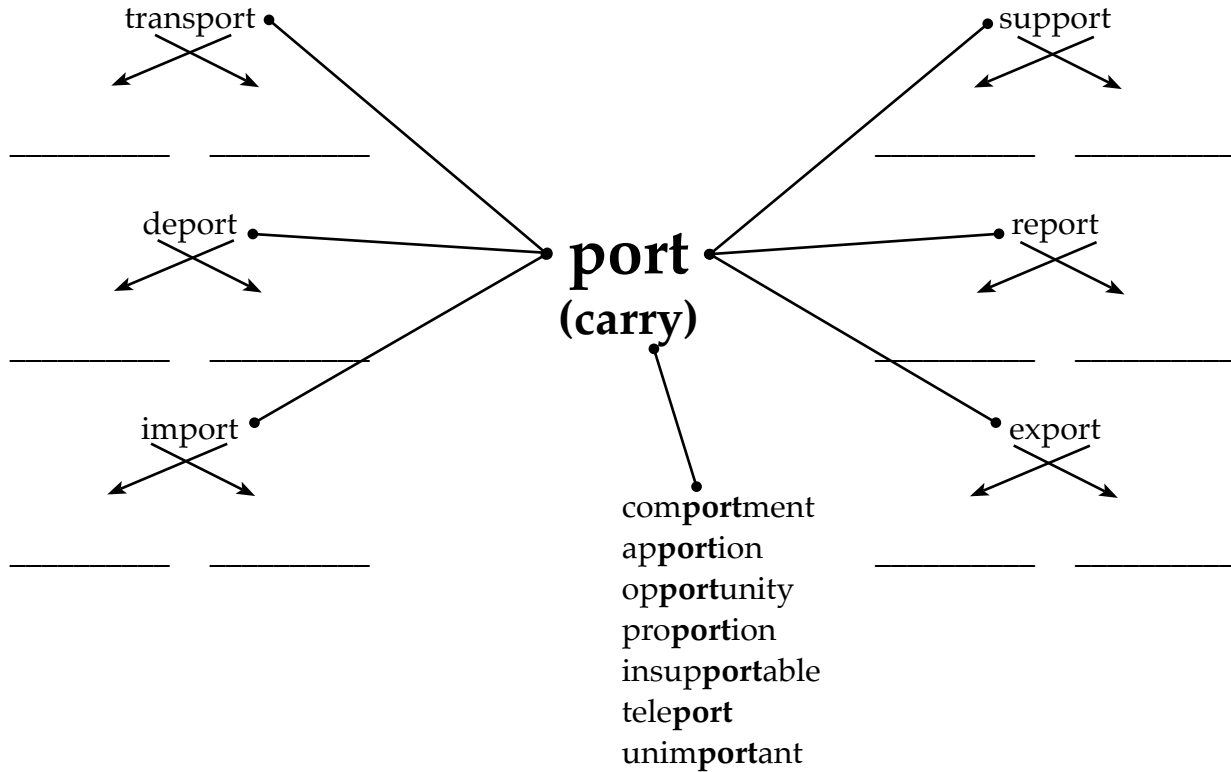

prefix	prefix	base	connective	suffix	connective	suffix	suffix
inter	de	part		ment		al	ly
dis	pro	port		ion		ate	ly
	ad	vent		ur(e)		ous
		nat(e)		ur(e)		al	ly
	re	med	i	at(e)		ion
	ir	reg		ul(e)		ar	ly

Supplemental Activities (continued)

5. Have students write literal definition of given word using knowledge of element meaning, or have them provide word to match provided literal definition (crisscross sheets). An example is at right.

Here's a word web that incorporates criss-cross sheets, for the base port (from Latin).

6. Latin & Greek Word Generation: Underline a recognizable morpheme, and list other words that share that morpheme.

A Technique for Reviewing Word Parts & Vocabulary Terms Independently

To study your cards use “The Box Method”!

1) Put down 4 cards to form your “BOX”

Word up, definition down:

democracy	convention
primary	delegate

2) Quiz yourself

Pick up a card, do you know the definition?

YES! Set it aside, and place a new card in your box.

NO... carefully review the back of the card until you feel you know it, then put it back in your box, and choose another card from your box to answer.

No card leaves the box until you get it right once.
Keep putting aside the cards you know and reviewing the ones you don't until you know them all!

3) Now try it with the definitions up!

This is a much more effective way to learn your cards than just flipping through the deck!

“The Box Method” William Van Cleave & Shirley Kokesh
Instruction sheet by Susan Schambach and Cheryl Swanson, Triad Academy, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Identifying Morphemes: The /shun/ Question

1. Underline the base.      2. Box any affixes.      3. Circle any connectives.

Guess    c o n t r a c t i o n    r e g r e s s i o n    m a g i c i a n

Correct Answer    c o n t r a c t i o n    r e g r e s s i o n    m a g i c i a n

Note: The word lists accompanying these morphemes were developed for high school students. Some words should be omitted for younger students.

Morphemes in the Content Areas: Content-area instructors have the opportunity to show how morphemes function in words specific to their subject. Exploring words' common morphemes and shared meanings proves fruitful for vocabulary development—to help students understand both words instructors are teaching and those that may be encountered in the future.
